Little Talks
ON Big Subjects:
IV.

Why worry over the servant problem? It's serious, but not impossible of solution. Common sense demands that you keep on trying until you succeed; many domestics are worthless, but not all. Keep on striving and in time you will get an excellent servant who wishes a permanent home; then the problem is solved, so far as you are concerned. If you had to go from house to house or agency to agency in search of a new domestic in this "trying-out" process, you would quickly wear yourself out. But such a course is unnecessary. The Times Want Ad pages will bring them to you—bring them in any number—and if you persist you will in time secure the very servant you have in mind. Call up Main 5260, state exactly what kind of girl you wish, then persist until you succeed. Surely that is far better than making the rounds of employment bureaus. Quite a simple and easy solution of the problem, don't you think?
